The district court approved the robust notice plan to go out from September 21 to December 21 via emails, postcards, news publications, and an innovative online media campaign. In June 2021, the district court granted a Preliminary Injunction finding the "continued denial of these benefits will seriously hinder the ability of many class members to feed their families and keep a roof over their heads." Most recently, in August 2026, the MDL Court issued a 105-page order denying the Bank's motion for summary judgment. The order clears the way for this long-running case to go to trial, including on claims for treble damages for the Bank's willful violations of federal statutes and punitive damages for its intentional disregard of class members' rights. The classes consist of consumers who paid extra to Tesla for its full self-driving ("FSD") software. The Ninth Circuit's review focused on consumer exposure to the allegedly misleading hardware statement, the proposed damages model, and the availability of classwide injunctive relief for a class defined as FSD purchasers in California who have stated that they would like to purchase or subscribe to FSD in the future but cannot rely on the product's future advertising or labeling. Julie Fieber argued for Plaintiff and the class, with support from attorney Katherine Ammirati and team.

SECURITIES & FINANCIAL CASES

FEDERAL COURT APPROVES "HISTORIC" $100 MILLION DISCRIMINATION SETTLEMENT WITH WELLS FARGO

On May 15, 2026, the federal court granted final approval of an historic $100 million settlement in the Wells Fargo Derivative Shareholder Litigation, a seminal lawsuit brought by Wells Fargo shareholders alleging the Bank's directors breached their fiduciary duties with regard to Wells Fargo's discriminatory hiring and lending practices. Under the settlement, Wells Fargo agreed to implement a $100 million Borrower Assistance Fund providing mortgage assistance to benefit low-income borrowers across the United States. The settlement resolved lawsuits stemming from widespread reports in 2022 that Wells Fargo conducted sham job interviews with minority candidates for positions that had already been filled, and separate reports that Wells Fargo had approved fewer than half of Black homeowners' refinancing applications in 2020, resulting in large disparities in minority lending approval rates. The case was settled on the eve of trial, set to commence on April 27, 2026. CPM, along with Bleichmar, Fonti & Auld and Motley Rice, served as co-lead counsel. The case was handled by Mark Molumphy, Tyson Redenbarger, Elle Lewis and Gia Jung.

STEVE WOZNIAK'S BITCOIN SCAM CASE AGAINST YOUTUBE ON APPEAL

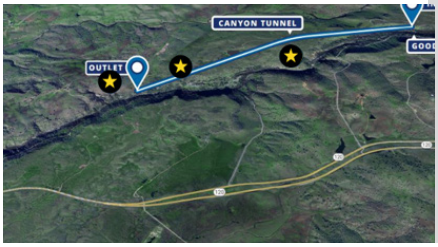

CPM represents Steve Wozniak, the Co-Founder of Apple, and victims of a "Bitcoin Giveaway" scam in a lawsuit against YouTube and Google that is testing the limits of Section 230 of the Communications Decency Act. Section 230 broadly immunizes social media sites from liability based on information posted by third parties. The Bitcoin scam uses fake footage of tech heroes, including Steve Wozniak, to convince users to send in their Bitcoin promising double back. In March 2024, the Court of Appeal reversed dismissal of the case based on Section 230 immunity, finding plaintiffs adequately alleged that YouTube is responsible for the "verification badges" that represented to users that the YouTube channels used by the fraudsters were trustworthy. The trial court then dismissed the case again, without permitting discovery, based on Section 230 immunity, and Plaintiffs have again challenged that ruling in the Court of Appeal. The case is being handled by Joe Cotchett, Brian Danitz and Gia Jung.

Recently, the United States District Court for the Northern District of California issued a major ruling that State Farm violated California law in Melissa Pitkin, et al. v. State Farm Fire and Casualty Company (Case No. 23-cv-00924-WHO). Plaintiffs, whose home was destroyed in the 2020 Walbridge Fire, challenged State Farm's systemic practice of depreciating sales tax when calculating payout benefits. U.S. District Judge William H. Orrick granted summary judgment in favor of the plaintiffs on this central issue, ruling that the California Insurance Code does not allow insurers to depreciate sales tax. The court held that the statute strictly limits deductions to "physical depreciation," a concept that cannot logically apply to an intangible retail charge like sales tax. The case is headed to trial in December 2026, where a jury will decide injury and damages. Frank Pitre, Tyson Redenbarger, and Gia Jung will lead the trial on behalf of the plaintiffs.

CPM REPRESENTS HEART ATTACK VICTIM IN I-580 CRASH

CPM recently filed a negligence complaint titled Richardson v. Jia, in Alameda County Superior Court. The complaint alleges that Jia was drunkenly speeding his Tesla on Interstate 580 one rainy night, recklessly causing a multicar pileup, including rear-ending and damaging the ambulance transporting Richardson to a San Francisco hospital after he suffered a heart attack. Jia's irresponsibility left Richardson stranded on the side of the highway in the dark, on a wet gurney, and wearing only a hospital gown. No replacement ambulance was allowed to take him from the crash site in Oakland to San Francisco so his wife had to pick him up. The case is being handled by Nanci Nishimura, Pierce Stanley, and team.

CLAIMS ARISING FROM THE CATASTROPHIC TRACY WAREHOUSE FIRE ARE REPRESENTED BY CPM

CPM is filing lawsuits in San Joaquin Superior Court on behalf of homeowners who were injured and traumatized by toxic contaminants released during the Tracy warehouse fire on June 11, 2026. The complaints name Medline Industries, Inc., who operated the million square foot medical goods warehouse, and assert causes of action for negligence, nuisance, and trespass. According to the complaints, Medline was negligent in its operations and maintenance at the warehouse. As a result, a fire started inside the warehouse and then was allowed to spread rapidly because fire suppression equipment failed to operate. The entire million square foot structure was engulfed in flames within 30 minutes of ignition. When firefighters arrived, they found that the internal hydrants lacked water pressure, forcing crews to connect to street hydrants. These failures of essential equipment significantly impacted initial firefighting operations. The warehouse's fire suppression equipment had purportedly been inspected and passed all checks just 6 months before, although Medline has not released details on that testing. It took firefighters almost a week to extinguish the fire. During this time, the community was exposed to toxic smoke, and debris and ash rained down upon homes and parks. Residents were told to shelter in place with windows closed during this time and to avoid contact with the fire's toxic byproducts. Many Tracy residents became ill and had to seek medical attention because of the fire. Plaintiffs seek compensation for both physical and emotional injuries as well as property damage. The CPM team is led by Frank Pitre, Julie Fieber, and Katherine Ammirati and team.

ANIMAL PROTECTION CASES

CPM'S RELENTLESS PURSUIT OF ONLINE PUPPY TRAFFICKERS

After years of litigation and a bench trial, CPM obtained a Judgment in excess of $1,000,000 in damages, emotional distress, and attorneys' fees against unscrupulous online puppy traffickers. In addition to the monetary damages, the Court issued an injunction barring the Defendants from ever again advertising or selling dogs. CPM is still investigating the Defendants' assets for the purpose of collecting on the Judgment. Recently, one of the Defendants is back at it, once again purchasing dozens of dogs from out-of-state breeders. This violates the Court order. Recent depositions of multiple out-of-state breeders establish that Defendants continue to purchase dogs, but they are now delivered to the house next door under a fake name. CPM and our co-counsel ALDF are preparing for a brief trial late this year to hold Defendants in contempt of Court for violation of the injunction. CPM previously received the ALDF Pro Bono Achievement Award for its fight against animal abuse. The case is being handled by Gary Praglin, Theresa Vitale, Gabe Beugelmans and team in the CPM Santa Monica Office.
