Jaclyn Verducci-Green is the Case Administrator for Antitrust cases at Cotchett, Pitre & McCarthy, where she has attained several years of high-level litigation experience in various federal, state, and appellate courts. Jaclyn primarily focuses on class actions, antitrust, business frauds, consumer law and contracts. Jaclyn has been instrumental in the prosecution of countless complex multi-district antitrust cases, which have recovered more than a billion dollars for cartel victims.

Jaclyn has widespread experience in all aspects of litigation including motion practice, discovery, and trial. Jaclyn has a vast understanding of electronically stored information (ESI) and review platforms. Jaclyn has managed countless complex electronic document review projects involving numerous party productions, high volumes of foreign language documents including Japanese, Chinese, Korean and German languages, as well as maintaining databases of all sizes, including those containing over 60 terabytes of data. Jaclyn has gained valuable insight and experience with predictive coding and other review analytics tools to increase the success of multifaceted document reviews.

Jaclyn has an extensive grasp on litigation against foreign entities, including service through Hague Convention and other means, arranging overseas depositions, and translation of foreign language documents for admissibility in Court.

Prior to joining CPM, Jaclyn interned as a Victim Advocate Assistant in the San Mateo County District Attorney's office. Jaclyn received her Masters in Criminal Justice at Boston University, where she graduated with honors. While at Boston University Jaclyn was extensively trained on state-of-the-art digital forensic tools of the industry, and gained
