As stated by the National Law Journal, Joseph W. Cotchett is considered by plaintiffs and defense attorneys alike to be one of the foremost trial lawyers in the country. He has been named one of the 100 most influential lawyers in the nation for the past 20 years. In recent years, he has been in the Top 3 for best attorneys in Northern California. For several years, he has been named by Super Lawyers to be the number ONE lawyer in Northern California. Since its inception, The Daily Journal has named him to be one of the Top 100 in California for the past many years. In 2019, he was named Consumer Attorney of the Year for his 20-year fight against lead paint manufacturers for poisoning California's most vulnerable children and communities. The California Labor Federation honored Cotchett with its "Top Slugger for Workers" award in 2019, recognizing his decades of fighting for the underdog. In 2020, Cotchett was named one of the Top 100 Lawyer and the Top 30 Plaintiff Lawyers in California.

As reported in the San Francisco / Los Angeles Daily Journal, Cotchett is "considered one of the best trial strategists in the state," building a career out of representing the underdog against powerful interests. He is a fearless litigator--once trying two cases at the same time (one in the morning and one in the afternoon)--and winning them both in San Diego Superior Court in 1984. His clients range from corporate giants to groups like Consumers Union - but the issue must be correct for Cotchett. The San Francisco Chronicle rated him as one of the best in California, saying, "The Burlingame attorney has had a star career that's not only talked about in legal circles but has made headlines around the country. Known mostly as a plaintiffs' lawyer, many of his cases are filed on behalf of fraud victims and have a widows-and-orphan flavor to them."

JOSEPH W. COTCHETT

Cotchett consistently has been named one of the most influential lawyers in California, and has been named by the legal press as one of the top 10 trial attorneys in California and has been listed in every edition of Best Lawyers in America since its inception.

During his 50-plus year legal career, Cotchett has tried more than 100 cases to verdict, and settled hundreds more, winning numerous jury verdicts, ranging from multi-million dollar fraud, antitrust and securities jury verdicts to several defense verdicts in complex civil cases. He successfully negotiated a multi-million-dollar settlement in a qui tam suit on behalf of the University of California and hundreds of millions of dollars in antitrust, securities, major fraud cases, and mass torts.

In recent years, Cotchett and his firm have taken on the Trump Administration, representing the City of Richmond in the Sanctuary City litigation and filed separate suits representing the City of San Jose in challenging the Trump Administrators' position on the DACA issues (Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals) pending in the U.S. District Court in Northern California.

VARIOUS CASES

In the 1980s, Cotchett won mammoth judgments and settlements for investors in white-collar fraud cases, with jury verdicts of more than $200 million arising out of the collapse of the Technical Equities Corp. in San Jose. He is known nationally as the lead trial lawyer for 23,000 plaintiffs in the Lincoln Savings & Loan Association/American Continental Corp. case in 1990 involving Charles Keating, his lawyers and accountants in Tucson, Arizona. He won one of the then largest jury verdicts in US history, $3.3 billion. He obtained and returned to senior citizens nearly $400 million in settlements from lawyers, accountants and professionals caught in the scandal of the fraud.

Cotchett has represented both the National Football League and teams since the early 1980s in various legal actions. As trial counsel for E. & J. Gallo Winery, he won a celebrated defense jury verdict in a trade dress infringement case involving wine labels and bottles produced by Gallo. The firm regularly represents Gallo in numerous matters.

In the 1990s, Cotchett's cases included major fraud, mass torts and environmental cases. He obtained a settlement for $25 million in relation to a qui tam suit involving the University of California, San Francisco School of Medicine, and a $96 million settlement from three defendants in a major antitrust action against the world's largest producers of citric acid. He served as lead counsel representing writers, actors and directors in the class-action suit challenging the use of net-profits contracts in the movie industry and was named co-lead counsel for the bondholders in the bankruptcy of Orange County, California.

In the 2000s, Cotchett served as chief trial counsel for Consumers Union, successfully defending the watchdog consumer group in a product disparagement and defamation suit in Federal Court in Los Angeles. Isuzu Motors of Japan had sued Consumers Union for disparagement to the 1995-96 Trooper, claiming millions in damages. Following an eight-week trial, a jury ruled in favor of Consumers Union. Trial Lawyers for Public Justice honored Cotchett as Trial Lawyer of the Year in 2000 in honor of his "outstanding contribution to the public interest" through his work for Consumers Union. Also, in 2000, Consumer Attorneys of California gave Cotchett its "Presidential Award of Merit." In 2004, he was the lead trial counsel in a product defamation case against Consumers Union. The jury ruled for Consumer Union in what was considered a major victory for a free press and the First Amendment.

Cotchett successfully represented the Chief Justice of the California Supreme Court and the individual Justices along with the Judicial Council, in litigation brought against them by the New York Stock Exchange and the National Association of Securities Dealers. The two Wall Street forces had filed suit against the Judicial Council challenging the State of California on establishing guidelines for arbitrators who hear complaints from investors in the state.

In recent years, Cotchett has taken on major corporate entities and Wall Street for financial fraud. He and the firm are involved in litigation resulting from nearly every major corporate scandal including Enron, Worldcom, Global Crossing, Homestore.com, Qwest, Montana Power Company, Lehman, Bank of America, Goldman Sachs and numerous others on behalf of private investors and public pensions. The firm has represented the California Public Employees' Retirement System, California State Teachers' Retirement System, and the University of California Board of Regents, along with numerous political subdivisions of the state, such as counties, cities, and districts.

PRO-BONO CASES

Cotchett is involved in extensive pro bono work since his early days of practice. In early 1983, Cotchett was asked by Ted Kennedy to join Dean Robb who had started a case against the FBI for having an informant in the Klu Klux Klan who killed Viola Liuzzo. She was murdered in March 1965 after the Selma march with the SCLC and Martin Luther King. Cotchett and Robb tried the case for her children before Judge Charles Joiner in March of 1983 in Ann Arbor, Michigan – 18 years after the killing in Alabama.

JOSEPH W. COTCHETT

After a trial of a number of FBI and KKK witnesses – the Judge found no intentional misconduct by the FBI, but it resulted in whole new guidelines for hiring informants by the FBI.

In 1993, Cotchett brought a lawsuit against the United States Navy on behalf of 8,600 Amerasian children in the Philippines who were left in villages after the closing of the Subic Bay Naval Base after 50 years of operation. The case resulted in a settlement giving direct U.S. aid to the children fathered by U.S. servicemen, and a television documentary on the subject. He regularly takes on pro bono causes including environmental and public policy matters and the firm represents and advises several Native American groups.

He has represented American Indian tribes, minority groups, women's groups, and a number of non-profits around the United States.

Joe Cotchett has been a champion for justice since his college days. As an engineering student in North Carolina, Joe challenged segregation by drinking from segregated water fountains and riding in the back of buses. Later, as a student at Cal Poly, in 1958, Joe successfully established the first integrated fraternity, which prompted the other fraternities on campus to follow suit.

Joe's legal career has involved representing the underdog and doing extensive pro bono work. His civil rights commitment has been leveraged over and over by his financial support of legal fellowships. He has given a 'kick-start' to the public interest careers of the new law graduates at Trial Lawyers for Public Justice, Public Citizen, Southern Poverty Law Center and Disability Rights Advocates. Through these fellowships, Joe has helped to ensure social change through law. Joe guided DRA as a board and litigation committee member from its infancy years into the defender of disability rights it has become today.

In 2005, following a distinguished history of community and civic involvement, Cotchett endowed a $7 million fund to support science and mathematics teacher education at California State Polytechnic University to serve inner city and rural minority children.
